Removal of Commissioner Phipps Leads to Sponsoring of Proposed Constitutional Amendment

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of articles on initiated and referred measures to be voted upon at the November General Election.)

Amendment No. 30
LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—When the 1937 legislature passed a law making the State Board of Education appointive instead of elective and giving control of the body to the governor, it unwittingly started a movement resulting in proposed Amendment No. 30.

Saenger Installs $10,000 New Sound Reproducing Unit

"Magic Voice" Equipment Arrives—Theater to Close Two Days

A GREATER RANGE

Local Equipment Will Utilize Full Tones Put Into New Films

Installation of new "sound" equipment at the Saenger theater the last part of this week at a cost of approximately $10,000 was announced Monday by M. A. Lightman, Jr., manager of Malco's Saenger and Rialto theaters.

The Saenger will be closed Thursday and Friday for the installation work, holding its formal reopening with the new sound system, Sunday, presenting Deanna Durbin in "That Certain Age."

The new "magic voice" sound equipment is the same installation used in the world's two finest theaters, the Center, and Radio City Music Hall, New York City.

The local theater management explained there has been a vast technical improvement in the quality of "sound" put into motion picture films in recent years which couldn't be used effectively on the Saenger's original reproduction unit, although that was the finest built when it was installed here in 1929. The range of volume and tone in the new reproduction at Hollywood, reproducing with equal fidelity the whisper of wind in a grove of trees or the great crescendo of a symphony orchestra.

The audience will not only be able to hear the actors speak, but will feel from the life-like tone of their voices that the play is actually being performed on the stage.

CRANIUM CRACKER

A popular film comedian of the silent days, whose outstanding physical characteristic is his strabismus, was born in the largest city in "The Pelican State" three years after the Chicago fire. His last name is the same as that of a notorious 18th century English highwayman.

What is the comedian's name, what is his outstanding physical characteristic, where and when was he born, and what was the full name of the highwayman?

Six Former Bobcats on the Team—Meet Northeast Center

HOPE TO NASHVILLE

Three Conference Teams Face Dangerous Foes Next Friday

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—A large number of South Arkansas boys will be with the Henderson State football squad when they journey to Hope Thursday night to meet Louisiana Northeast Center of Monroe at Hammond Stadium at 8 o'clock.

Coach "Dob" Grow will take about 33 men on the trip, six of whom are former Hope players. Among the Hammond players are: R. C. Kennedy, an end; Hugh Reese, an end; Percy Ramsey, a tackle; and Jack Turner, halfback. Two or three of these boys will probably be included in the starting line-up, and practically every one will see action sometime during the game.

Stamps will contribute to the starting eleven with Earl Tatum, who is a guard. Tatum, who was an all-state man last fall, is a co-captain this year. He has started every game this season.

Jim and Ruff Tollett of Nashville have played quite a bit this season, and undoubtedly will see action Thursday night. Tip King of Smackover, a former all-state high school back, is wearing the Red and Grey this year and has proven to be a valuable ground-gainer for the Reddies.

Dierks produces a probable starter in Russell Peck, an end. Peck is one of the 12 lettermen of last year. Lyesster Varnado of Norphlet is one of last year's veteran backs. He has been a starter in all games this season.

Coach Grow came to Henderson from the University of Wyoming, has produced one of the strongest defensive teams in the state. He couldn't get the offense to "click" in the opening games, but as the season progresses, he is pulling them out of the slump. Grow filled the place vacated by S. B. Suduth, who was promoted to the position of director of athletics. The group of 75 men who reported for practice at the first of the season has been culled down about 50 per cent. The majority are freshmen, and the only disadvantage is lack of experience in playing together, he said.

Bible Takes Jaunt About Parked Cars at Football Game

Somebody stole a Bible out of a parked car at the Hope-Jonesboro game here last Friday night. And then, his superstition getting the better of him when he found that what he had stolen was the Book, he hastily shoved it into another car and fled.

As a result, The Star had two notices prepared for publication Monday afternoon—until the editorial and classified departments got together and found both referred to the same Book. One was a letter from the Texarkana man who lost the Bible; the other was a "Found" ad from the woman in whose car the Bible was finally left.

The classified ad was "killed," leaving the following letter to speak for itself.

Editor The Star: We hurried to your city after prayer meeting to see the Bobcat-Jonesboro game; and in our haste we forgot to take our Bible from the car.

I have never heard of anyone stealing a Bible, and I am sure the thief did not know what he was taking, and if he will return same to your office I will gladly pay for publication of this notice.

Guy Payne, Former Athlete, Dies Here

Funeral Services Held Monday for Former Bobcat Star

Guy Allen Payne, 24, former Hope High School football star and son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Payne of Hope, died in Julia Chester hospital at 1 a. m. Sunday of peritonitis appendicitis. He had been ill only five days.

Born at Center Point, Howard county, he attended high school at Nashville, Ark., where he was an outstanding football and track star. He played quarterback on the Nashville team three years and was captain of the squad in his junior year.

His parents moved to Hope from Nashville where Payne played one year with the Bobcats before graduating in 1935. Coach Foy Hammons of Hope once rated Payne with the greatest high school backs he ever coached.

After receiving his diploma here Payne entered Louisiana State University, but returned to Hope a short time afterwards and then entered Magnolia A. and M. college at Magnolia where he was a student one year.

Recently he had been employed as a bus driver by the Arkansas Motor

1938 Wage-Hour Law Reverses Pilgrim Fathers' Act of 1630

Labor Shortage Centuries Ago Provoked Law Against Profiteering

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—In 1630 the Pilgrim Fathers of the Massachusetts colony, faced with a labor shortage, passed a law providing that "carpenters, joiners, bricklayers, sawyers and thatchers shall not take above two shillings a day."

In 1938, on October 24, in a period of great unemployment, a federal law will go into effect which sets a minimum hourly wage rate of 25 cents and a maximum work week of 44 hours, with time and one-half for overtime.

The law is the Fair Labor Standards Act. Its administrator is Elmer F. Andrews, head of the Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor. The act also bars from interstate commerce goods produced by "oppressive child labor." That part of it is under Chief Katharine F. Lenroot of the Children's Bureau.

Plenty of Questions

Employers and employees still are asking which workers are covered and which are not. Aside from certain exceptions made in the law—chiefly of agricultural workers, seamen, street car employees, executives, retail workers and most employees in the fishing, canning and dairy industries, the Wage and Hour Division in general classifies those covered as:

"1. Employees engaged in producing, manufacturing, mining, handling, transporting or in any manner working on goods moving in interstate commerce."

"2. Employees engaged in any process or occupation necessary to the production of such goods."

"3. Employees engaged in interstate transportation, transmission or communication."

Further interpretation by the division's general counsel says that except for the stated exemptions, "all the employees, in a place of employment where goods shipped or sold in interstate commerce were produced, are included in the coverage. . . . This goes for watchmen, clerks, stenographers, maintenance workers and messengers, among others."

Employees in manufacturing, processing or distributing plants, "a part of whose goods moves in commerce out of the state in which the plant is located," are covered. But a plant none of whose products leave the state is not covered, even though its employees work on raw materials from outside the state. Employees working at home, as well as those in factories, are covered.

Wage-Hour Administrator Elmer F. Andrews . . . runs a question and answer department.

Old-Age Pension Act Ousted From Ballot for Fraud

Supreme Court Finds Hundreds of Cases of Fraudulent Signatures

CIRCULATORS SIGN

None Has Authority to Sign Another's Name to Ballot Petition

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—The Arkansas Supreme Court Monday barred Lawyer A. L. Rotenberry's old age and blind pension initiated act from the November general election ballot.

The court granted H. P. Hargis, taxpayer, an injunction restraining the secretary of state from certifying the proposed act to the various election commissioners.

Hargis attacked the measure on the ground that an insufficient number of qualified electors had signed the petitions seeking to initiate the measure. He charged that a large number of names on the petitions were fraudulent.

Board Decision Wednesday

The high tribunal postponed until 9 a. m. Wednesday a ruling on a suit seeking to bar from the November ballot proposed constitutional amendment No. 28, known as the "highway bond refunding amendment."

The suit, brought by former Corporation Commissioner C. P. Newton, seeks to bar the proposed amendment on the ground that its ballot title is insufficient to give the voters a complete picture of the proposal's purposes.

The amendment would launch the state on the refunding of its $143-million-dollar debt.

Chancellor Walker Smith of Union Chancery Court was prohibited by the supreme court from restraining enforcement of the auto-testing provisions of Arkansas' model traffic code.

The tribunal granted its writ of prohibition on the petition of the police chiefs of Jonesboro, Little Rock, North Little Rock and Fort Smith.

Union chancery over two months ago stopped enforcement of the auto-testing law with a temporary injunction against Superintendent Albright of the state police, and all other law enforcement officers in the state.

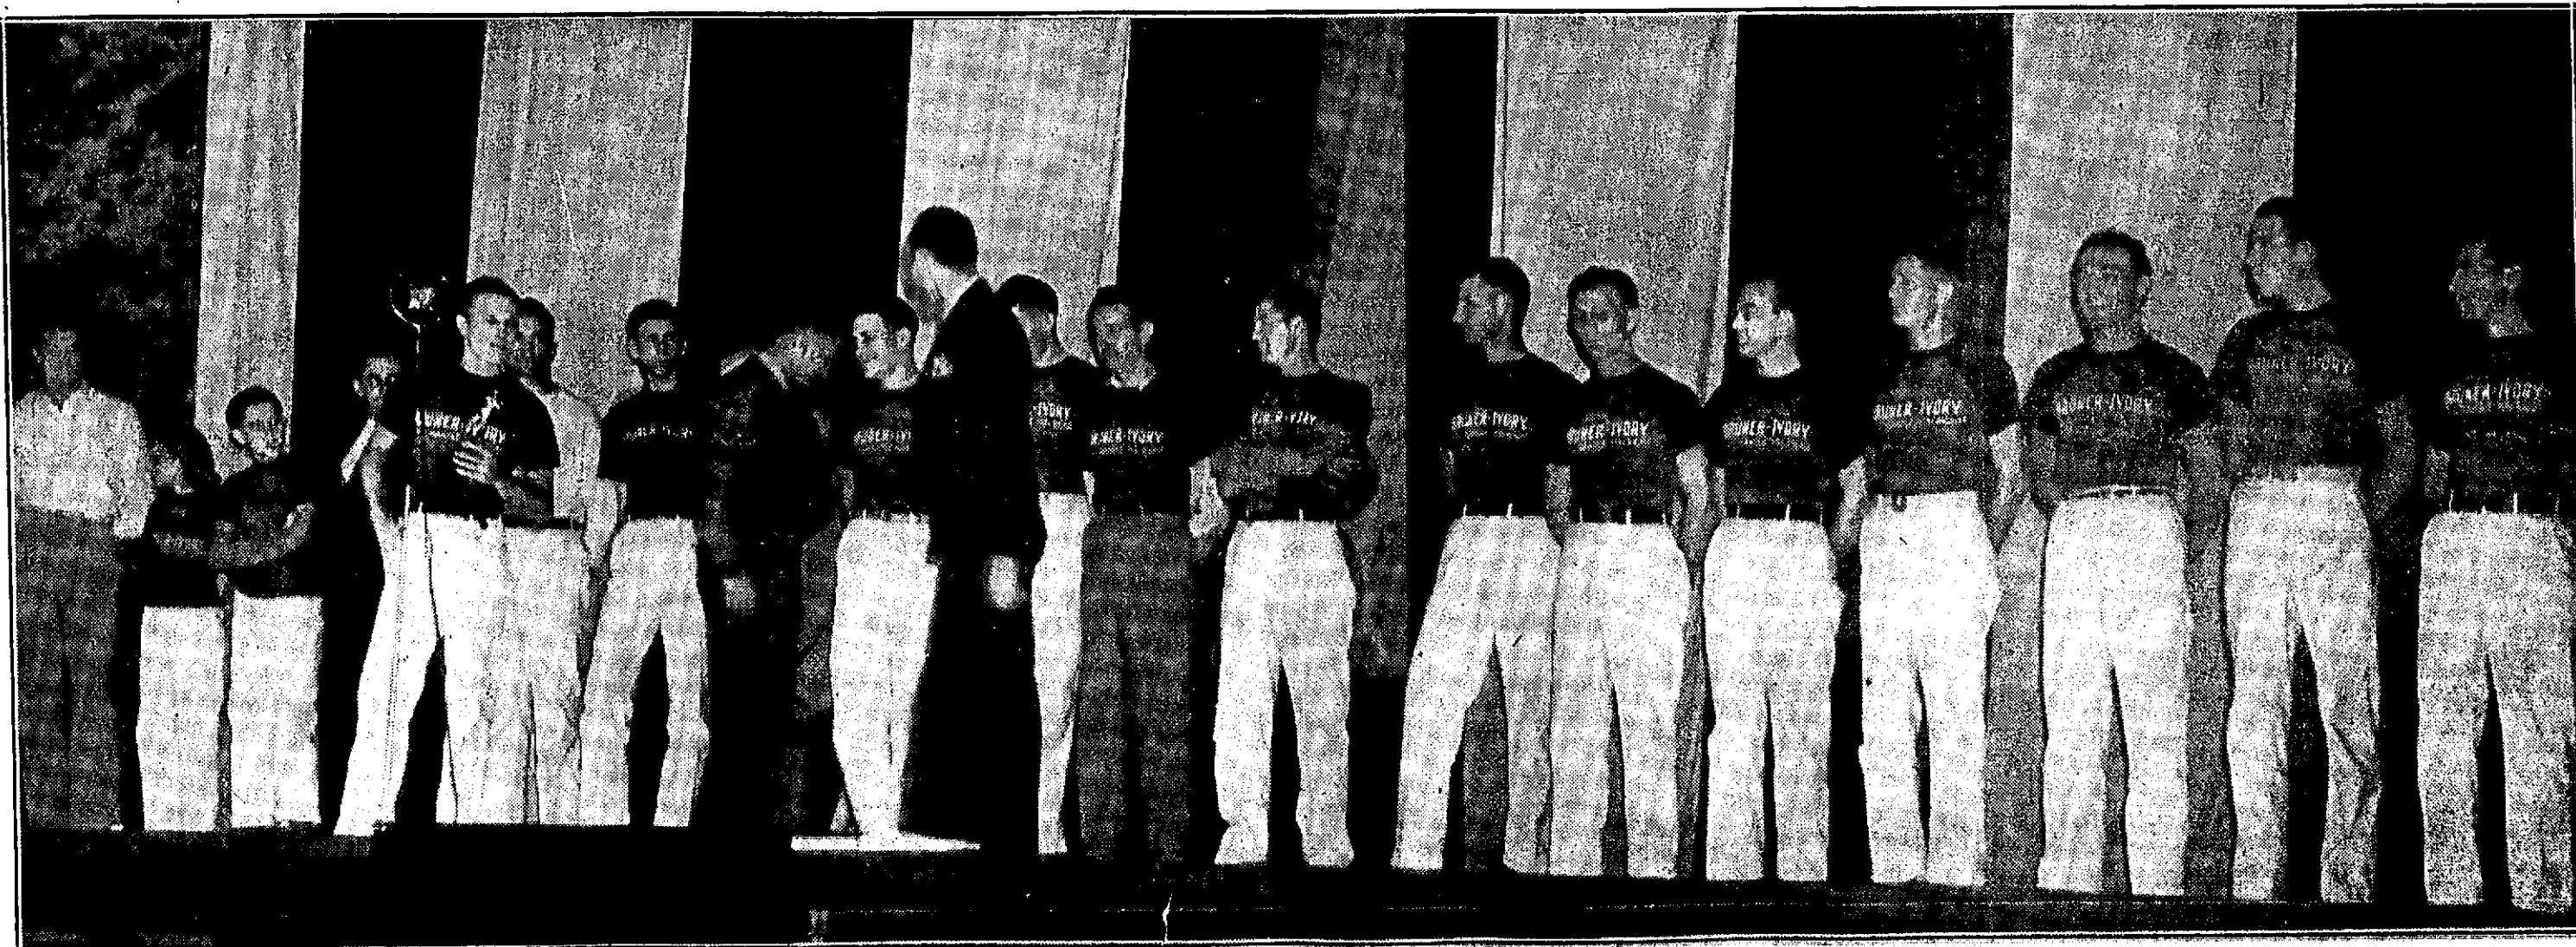

The injunction was obtained by Representative F. C. Purviance and approximately 200 other Union county citizens.

The supreme court, in putting the auto-testing law back in force, held Union chancery was without jurisdiction in the case, and that the purpose

The Top of the World Gets a Little Cluttered

It would be interesting to find out just how Benito Mussolini is feeling right now.

He seems to be sitting on top of the world, his people are hailing him as a world-saving peace-maker (which is certainly a new role for him), as he has just taken a major part in a history-making event. But it is a safe bet that if you could get a look at his inmost thoughts you would find that he is far from happy.

For what has been happening in the last few months is obvious enough, when you stop to think about it. Benito has been slowly but steadily deflated. He still rolls as ominous an eye and throws out as big a chest as ever, but he is strictly the Number Two dictator now.

Hitler's Germany is the dominant power in Europe today, and there is every indication that it will become more dominant in the next year or so. And all of the boastful talk from Rome about the beauties of the Rome-Berlin axis cannot hide the fact that it is not at all to Mussolini's interests to have Hitler advancing so fast.

Look at what has happened already. A year or two ago, it was a cardinal point in Italian policy to keep Germany out of Austria. Today Austria is part of Germany, and a German army occupies one end of the Brenner pass—looking down contemptuously on the Tyrol, where some hundreds of thousands of Germans live under an Italian rule which is far more oppressive than anything the Czechs ever put on.

Jugoslavia and the neighboring country were likewise worked down as a sphere for Italian penetration and expansion. That dream also has exploded. A great deal of penetration and expansion will take place in that part of Europe in the near future, but it won't be Italian; it will be German.

The Near-East has also been a goal of Mussolini's foreign policy. But the famous old German "drive to the east" is going ahead now faster than ever before, and it would be a hopeful soul indeed who supposed that Hitler was going to revise his plans there to make room for the junior partner.

What is left? An arid empire in Africa and a half-conquered, poverty-stricken domain in Ethiopia.

There may yet be a few pickings in Spain—but even there, it is the German agent who has been gobbling up the choicest concessions.

So Mussolini can hardly be happy about the way things are shaping up. Already he begins to look suspiciously like the tail to Hitler's kite. The pupil to whom he taught Fascism is in a fair way to muscle teacher clear out of the schoolroom.

Approximately One Out of Ten Persons Possesses Some Speech Defect

(This is the first of two articles in which Dr. Fishbain discusses the matter of speech training.)

Speech is the chief characteristic by which we distinguish man from animal. It is only recently that schools have given serious attention to the matter of speech. In an earlier generation far more stress was placed on writing. Twenty-five or 30 years ago the country was well covered with elocution teachers, and many little boys and girls were taught to recite poetry with gestures. Nowadays less attention is paid to such recitation, but much more is paid to simple talking for various reasons.

The statistics seem to show that about 10 per cent of our public has a speech defect. Perhaps one and a half million children stutter and stammer; perhaps another million require help for other bad habits of speech.

Children learn much through imitation. Many a child is ruined as his speech habits by bad habits of his older brothers and sisters, by his father and mother, and by his playmates, who early in his life have taught him incorrect manners of expression.

When children enter kindergarten the teacher soon learns to classify them according to their ability to express themselves.

Once it was thought that most speech defects were due to some anatomical disturbance. Nowadays it is recognized that a small per cent, certainly less than one per cent, of all of the cases of defective speech are due to some physical disability, and that the vast majority are due to bad psychology.

A recent writer on defective speech has coined the phrase "lip laziness" to describe those people who hardly trouble to talk correctly. Everyone can realize, with a moment's thought, that the ability to speak distinctly requires a certain amount of attention in formation of the sounds, exactly as the ability to throw a baseball or swing golf club requires a certain amount of mental and physical co-ordination.

When young children are learning to speak, they may be made to realize the importance of speaking correctly by suitable reward for correct speech, and thus early in life be given the necessary stimulus to speak distinctly.

The words used by the small child are not nearly so important as the manner in which the words are used. Children who live in homes in which the parents speak distinctly and use correct words will, if they have ordinary intelligence, learn to use the same words in the same way.

Another expert in speech has discovered that children of uneducated foreign parents frequently develop a better pronunciation of English than do the children of uneducated American parents. The reason is, of course, that the children of foreign parents learn most of their English in school, where they have the chance to obtain pure and clear English. The early influences are of the greatest importance.

RAISING A FAMILY

Drawbacks to All Answers to the Problem of Telling a Child "Facts of Life"

I have recently been trying to show parents the very vulnerable, sensitive and impressionable child that is ours at twelve to fourteen years of age. Of all the ages of man, or woman, this is the least co-ordinated, the most delicately sensitized, and possibly the least understood. It is a period of natural reserves and of shrinking from brutal truths.

So—we come to sex.

There are two schools of thought about the wisdom of going into a biological conference with the child of this age. The advocates of the frank culture advise the mother to retire with daughter to a quiet room and explain fully and in detail all the facts of life. Fathers were, and are, advised to do the same with their sons.

The other and more recent thought seems to be a bit of revolt against this method. Parents have an uneasy suspicion in some instances that stark realism has interfered with the delicate gears of adolescence, and that, making one of the most beautiful periods in life subservient to physical function, in short, claim the reactionaries, children have a tendency to either turn their faces away from natural destiny or adopt an attitude of irreverence.

I don't know just what to think, frankly. I see the need of revelation most emphatically, but some modern mothers and fathers have said that were they to do it over, they would prefer to have their boys and girls learn from hearsay, distorted though it may be, than reap the questionable harvest of free speech, mechanical reaction and lack of sensibility.

Children do learn much today that they did not know before. No longer can we take the attitude that they are ignorant. Moreover, the miracle of birth has been theirs to get used to from the very early years when mother explained that a new baby was on the way.

The relation of the sexes is the problem. How to put it over and when, without destroying the maid's or young man's birthright of beauty and tenderness?

Mother, I suggest that if you cannot bring yourself to close confidence on these matters, it is considered safe to leave it to a class instructor who will be able to couch terms scientifically enough to rob statements of either personal application or emotional wounds. The same, father, with your son. If you prefer to take the initiative and explain sex and its functions, then do so, but it should be dropped when once thoroughly understood.

SERIAL STORY MURDER TO MUSIC

CAST OF CHARACTERS
MYRNA DOMBEY—heroine.
WIFE of the sensational singing band leader.
ROBERT TAIT—hero. Newspaper photographer—detective.
ANNIE FEELY—Myrna's closest friend.
DANNIE FEELY—officer assigned to investigate Ludden Dombey's murder.

Yesterday, Knocking Rogers out, Tait obtains the band records, delivers them to Feely. They show Dombey spent $200 in one month for flowers for one woman.

CHAPTER XIII
TAIT laughed at Dannie Feely's reference to the flowers which Dombey had ordered. "If you start looking up the women for whom Lud Dombey bought flowers in the month of May it will keep you plenty busy. I have an idea you'll run across a lot of florist's bills in this bunch of stuff."

Tait was right. There were bills from florists by the dozens—and sometimes there were letters from florists, very pointed ones, inquiring as to when payment could be expected. There were the same kind of letters from tailors and jewelers.

"This guy Dombey certainly let loose of a lot of change whenever his creditors caught up with him," Feely said.

Tait did not answer at once. In his hand he held a sheet of yellow paper and he was studying it intently. "Here," he said at last, in response to Feely's inquiring gaze. "Now we're getting at something."

"What is it?"

"It's the contract with the fellow who wrote the song 'The Cat's Meow.'"

"Well, what about it?"

"Just this: Ludden Dombey was supposed to have written the song. It's made a big hit. But he didn't write it. An unknown, down-and-out musician wrote it, and he made a contract with Dombey to use it under Dombey's name—for a royalty. But Dombey got behind in those payments, too."

Feely's eyes narrowed. "How'd you know that, and why in the hell didn't you tell me?"

"I haven't known it long enough to tell anybody. But Harris Rogers told me, and that's why I was anxious to get hold of these records."

"Now maybe we've got something," Feely cried, snatching at the yellow sheet. "Does it give the guy's name?"

Tait nodded. "I take that signature to be George K. Weeks."

FEELY grabbed for the telephone. "They ought to have his address at the musicians' union." He whirled a mechanical number pad on his desk, began dialing furiously. Then into the phone he barked. "Let me talk to Jamison."

"Hello, Jamie? ... This is Feely down at headquarters. Have you got the address of a musician by the name of George K. Weeks?" Feely drummed the desk, waiting. Then: "Okay, Thanks, Jamie." He replaced the instrument in its cradle and turned to Tait. "Hasn't paid his dues for a year and isn't a member any longer. The address they have for him is in the south end—lodging house district. He may still be there." Feely reached for his hat. "Want to leave this a while and see what luck we have?"

"Sure thing."

The two climbed into one of the headquarters' cars and sped toward the south end—lodging house district. He may still be there." Feely reached for his hat. "Want to leave this a while and see what luck we have?"

Today's Bill: Alarums ... Plots ... Complaints ... Departures, Arrivals

HOLLYWOOD.—Short takes:

The four-power pact was made in Europe and peace seemed assured, and there was rejoicing in the high places of Talkietown. But Grover Jones, who doesn't have a radio in his office, overheard a buzz of conversation about some alarmist report and asked Producer Hunt Stromberg what was going on a broad.

"It's terrible," said the Metro executive gloomily, "and I guess it's true without any doubt."

"But what is it?" insisted the writer.

"Italy has banned 'Marie Antoinette!'"

Animal Picture

A group of three prominent Hollywoodmen, not representing any studio but acting independently, are planning a picture on Hitler, to be called "The Mad Dog of Europe." It will contain a of smuggled film, part of it from German concentration camps.

Who Is and Is Not Doing What

Franchot Tone may stay here for one more picture. In fact, the studio may force him to remain, because his contract doesn't expire until November 15. But he also is being offered a new contract ... In spite of her promise to return after her marriage, Kay Francis has told her agent that she'll be back, and ready for work, early next year.

Bette Davis, who's beginning to get Scarlet fever herself as the result of sentiment favoring her for the part, is not likely to be loaned by Warners even if David Selznick asks for her ... Winny Weissmuller definitely will be Toran again—once a year for the next three years ... Sonja Henie and her studio are having their first serious disagreement—this one over the story for her next flicker, "Castles in Norway."

Nag, Nag, Nag

Jack Benny has spent a lot of money backing his race horse, Buck Benny, which always rewarded him by coming in last. Discouraged, the comedian decided not to bet the other day, and his nag romped in with a price of 48-2 ... They say the newly horse-conscious movie maker, Louis B. Mayer, bought "The Yearling" because he thought it was a story about a colt.

Desert Note: Director Clarence Brown brought in two wells on his valley ranch, and figures they add $50,000 to the value of the place. They're not oil wells, either—just water.

It's a Fix! We Been Robbed!

His studio has decided that it wouldn't do for Robert Taylor to take a terrible lacing from Wallace Beery in "Stand Up and Fight" unless he eventually proves his fistic mastery. So a second battle will be staged toward the son. If you prefer to take the initiative and explain sex and its functions, then do so, but it should be dropped when once thoroughly understood.

Ben C. Shipp Will Head Labor Unit

Former Hope Man Named Head of Compensation Division

LITTLE ROCK.—The Benefit Section of the Unemployment Compensation Division of the State Labor Department—the unit which will begin paying benefits to unemployed workers after January 1—came officially into being over the week-end when Labor Commissioner Ed I. McKinley appointed Ben C. Shipp chief of benefits in the division.

Mr. Shipp's appointment was effective immediately, and he left for Washington with W. A. Rooksberry, division director; Thomas V. Ashbrook, assistant director, and J. Gayle Windsor, chief accountant, to attend an interstate conference of Unemployment Compensation Commissions.

While there the Arkansas officials plan to perfect their procedure for payment of benefits under the state's 1937 unemployment compensation act. The division has accumulated about $4,500,000 in its benefits funds.

Mr. Shipp has had an unusual career with the federal government. He started work with the old Emergency Relief Administration as disbursing officer at Hope, at a salary of $75 a month. He moved up from that position to a post with the Arkansas Rehabilitation Corporation.

When that agency was absorbed by the Resettlement Administration, he went into the RA. That agency's Finance Division was absorbed by the United States Treasury Department, and Mr. Shipp became auditor in charge of audit reconciliations of the RA for the Treasury's Little Rock office.

He received appointment as field advisor for the Unemployment Compensation Division about a year ago, and recently was promoted to chief of field advisors. He ranked within the first three in a competitive examination for the position to which he was appointed. His position is comparable to that held by D. Palmer Patterson, who was recently appointed as chief of the division's other section—the Arkansas State Employment Service.

After the state begins paying benefits, applicants will be paid: According to the law, by the Benefit Section, while the Employment Service, in which all applicants must register to become eligible for benefits, attempts to get them jobs to remove them from the benefit rolls.

Technically, the Unemployment Division has today but one official employee—Mr. Shipp. Others holding positions who took and passed qualifying examination have not received their official appointments, and other positions for which competitive examinations were held have not been filled.

You have to believe in happiness, or happiness never comes. I know that a bird chirps none the less. When all that he finds is crumbs. You have to believe the buds will blow. Believe in the grass in the days of snow. Ah, that's the reason a bird can sing—On his darkest day he believes in Spring. You have to believe in happiness—It isn't an outward thing. The Spring never makes the song. I guess. As much as the song the Spring. Aye, many a heart could find content. If it saw the joy on the road it went. The joy ahead when it had to grieve. For the joy is there—but you have to believe.—Selected.

The Arkansas high school football conference are threatened this week by determined circuit opponents in a program that also offers two other all-conference games. The Little Rock Tigers, Pine Bluff Zebros and Benton, who with Jonesboro, form the select circle, are in for a busy night Friday from teams whose remaining hopes for seasonal prestige are based more or less, on the possibility of dumping a leader. The Tigers will be hosts here to the Fort Smith Grizzlies who battled the North Little Rock Wildcats 7-7 last week. The Grizzlies, who already have whipped their traditional Van Buren foes would almost be willing to quit and call it a successful season if they stopped the Tigers. Seize 4 Germans at Panama Canal

Woman Included in Group Arrested for Photographing Forts

PANAMA, Panama.—(AP)—Four Germans, including a woman, were arrested by military police Sunday when they were found taking photographs in the Fort Randolph area of the Canal Zone fortifications. The quartet was held in the Fort Randolph guardhouse pending an inquiry to determine whether they will be charged with violation of the espionage act.

The woman, booked as Ingeborg Gutmann, an another prisoner who gave her name as Hans Schackow, were said by military authorities to be employees of the German Hapag-Lloyd steamship line agency at Cristobal. The other two were listed as Gisbert Gross and Edward Robert Kuhnig. Their addresses were not given.

The four drove to the gates of the Fort Randolph reservation Sunday morning in Kuhnig's automobile and told the sentry on duty that they were going to the post exchange. They were permitted to pass when the sentry asked whether they had a camera and received a negative reply. The sentry became suspicious after two hours and advised the sergeant on duty to search for them. They were found making pictures of Caleta Point and were taken at once to the guardhouse. Military authorities confiscated their camera and the automobile.

Winston Churchill Urges "Common Front" Against Dictators

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Winston Churchill, answering Adolf Hitler's accusation that he was a war-monger, Sunday night called upon world democracies—including the United States—to form a common front against "moral and military aggression" of dictators.

"The preponderant world forces are upon our side," said Churchill, Britain's first lord of the Admiralty during the World War. "They have but to be united to be obeyed." Churchill, along with former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and former First Lord of the Admiralty Alfred Duff Cooper, were charged by Hitler in a speech at Saarbrücken, on October 9 with being men who would "like to make war." Both Eden and Duff Cooper quit Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's cabinet because of his foreign policy.

"We must arm," Churchill said in his speech which was not broadcast the Potomac as a crowning event. The program includes the paper said, a state dinner and a ball at the White House; a state reception by Congress at the capitol; a dinner and reception given by King George and Queen Elizabeth at the British embassy in honor of President Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt; and a visit to Mount Vernon and the grave of George Washington. En Route home to London, their majesties expect to visit Bermuda, the newspaper added.

A brief announcement from Baltimore, Scotland, October 8, said the king and queen were planning a three-week visit to Canada next year. At the time nothing was said of extending the tour to the United States, though observers said they were likely to do so as a gesture of the "friendship of the two peoples." By their visit to Washington, King George VI and his queen would be the first reigning British sovereigns ever to set foot on United States soil.

A Knife in His Back

A long-bladed knife plunged in his broad back, Sam Thomas stood like this for 20 minutes in Los Angeles while he waited for a doctor to remove the blade. A drunk, whom Thomas had refused a dime, stabbed him in the back as he turned to walk away. Doctors said Thomas had an even chance to live.

of the restraining order in the lower court was to stop prosecution under a criminal statute.

Fraud in Petitions

In its Rutenberry ruling the supreme court said that "hundreds of names were signed in the same handwriting" on the petitions and that "there is not even an attempt to disguise the fact that in many, many instances such names were written by the person who circulated the petition."

"The right to sign another's name to an initiative petition does not exist," the court held.

The supreme court named C. W. McKay, of Magnolia, to succeed George Norman, of Hamburg, on the State Board of Bar Examiners.

1938 Wage-Hour

ered. Where workers are paid on a piece-work basis or on a weekly or monthly rate, they must receive at least the equivalent of the minimum hourly rate.

40-Cent Minimum in 1945
Beginning October 24, 1939, the statutory work week will be 42 hours and after the second year of the act, only 40 hours. The minimum hourly wage rate will be raised from 25 to 30 cents, a year from now, and will be pushed to 40 cents on October 24, 1945.

Due to meager funds, less than half the division's 12 regional offices will be opened this fall. (The 12 cities are Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Richmond, Cleveland, Birmingham, Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Houston, Denver, and San Francisco.) So there will be few inspectors available to check the records which employers are required to keep of persons employed, their wages and hours worked. There's a multiple system of enforcement, however, which tends to discourage any willful violations. Andrews urges all employers and employees to report such violations, assuring the latter that the act specifically protects them from discharge or discrimination.

Employees May Sue

Employees may bring suit for unpaid minimum wages or unpaid overtime, and employers violating wage and hour requirements are liable for such suits plus an equal amount to cover damages, court cost and attorney fees. It will be unlawful to ship or sell interstate commerce any goods produced where a person was employed in violation of the wage or hour sections, to discriminate against any complaining employee, to fail to keep the required records or to falsify any required record.

Penalties are a fine up to $10,000 and imprisonment for up to six months, the latter for second offenders only.

"Oppressive child labor" is defined as employment of children under 16 in any occupation except where the Children's Bureau determines employment of children of 14 is won't interfere with schooling, health or well-being, and employment of children under 18 in occupations determined as hazardous or detrimental.

Specifically exempted from both wage and hour provisions are agricultural workers, seamen, employees of airplanes, street car, motor bus, inter-urban railways and of weekly or semi-weekly newspapers of less than 3000 circulation; persons in bona fide executive, professional or local retailing capacity, or outside salesmen; employees of any retail or service establishment, most of whose selling or servicing is in interstate commerce; those engaged in fishing and the fishing industry; persons employed in the area of production to handle, prepare or can agricultural dairy or horticultural products for market.

Employees of railway, motor bus and truck carriers regulated by the I. C. C. are exempt from the hour rules, as are workers in the first processing of milk or cream into dairy products, in ginning and compressing cotton, the processing of cotton seed and the processing of agricultural products into sugar or syrup.

In industries designated by Andrews as "seasonal" employees may work up to 12 hours a day or 56 hours a week for not more than 14 weeks each year, the overtime rate applying for hours in excess. Workers engaged in canning or packing fresh fruits and vegetables in the production area or in dressing poultry or slaughtering livestock are exempt from all hour provisions for up to 14 weeks. Learners, apprentices and handicapped workers may be employed below the minimum wage under individual certificates issued by the administrator.
